PRACTICE AREAS:

- Tax
- Real Estate Transactions
- Business/Corporate

Skip Kessler is the "go to" person for clients who want state-of-the-art tax planning for real estate acquisitions, dispositions and developments. He is an expert in advising real estate partnerships and limited liability companies where partners or members want to separate and each do a Section 1031 exchange, or where some partners or members want to do an exchange and others want cash. Skip also has structured forward and reverse exchange transactions involving billions of dollars of property. Skip holds a bachelor's degree from Cornell University and a law degree, cum laude, from the University of Michigan.
